UV screen printing

DABA Group is a manufacturer of high quality license plate mounting frames with attractive advertising print made with modern and ecological UV technology. The resulting colors are more intense and much more durable, and the printing is more precise than traditional screen printing with free-drying inks.

Frames with DOMING surface

Doming is an attractive method of decorating license plate frames, which allows to achieve almost three-dimensional effect, thanks to covering graphics with a convex layer of transparent polyurethane resin giving a lens effect. This technology makes it possible to achieve the depth of the image, and thanks to special slats with convexity on the sides, it prevents Doming. In addition, the resin used protects the print from UV rays, which increases the durability of the product.

For an even more striking print appearance, we provide our customers with an additional option of printing on chrome/luster film. This solution is an interesting alternative to 3D printing.
